Preparing to travel

Travel advice for anxious passengers
This guide is aimed at anyone who might feel a bit anxious about travelling through Heathrow, after all Heathrow is a large busy airport and the journey through the airport can seem complex especially if you don’t know what to expect or what is expected of you.

Plenty of help is at hand, you just need to know where to find it. Over the years we’ve had a lot of experience in assisting anxious travellers and we hope that this guide will enable you to prepare for your forthcoming trip to Heathrow and be confident in the knowledge that Heathrow might be big, but we’re not scary.

We understand that everyone is different and if after reading this guide you still have concerns about your departures journey through Heathrow or if you just need more information then please don’t hesitate to contact us.
Finding your way around Terminal 3

Terminal 3 is one large building, with long piers where the aircraft park. Check-in and arrivals are both on the ground floor, with zones A – G in the check-in area. The departures area (security) is on the first floor upstairs from the check-in zones. Lifts, escalators or stairs will take you up to security.

If you travel to Terminal 3 by car, coach or taxi, you will by dropped off outside the main terminal building. If you travel to Terminal 3 by train, underground or bus, you will be dropped off at our central terminal area – which is located between Terminals 2 and 3. From here, just follow the signs for Terminal 3 departures.

Inside the main terminal building you will find airline desks, check-in, security and most of our shops, restaurants and facilities.

The departures area is separated by zones for each airline. There are signs when you arrive telling you what zone to check in at.

Visit www.heathrow.com to view and download maps of Terminal 3.

Finding your way around Terminal 3

Information

Because Heathrow is so busy it’s not possible to tell you which part of Terminal 3 that your flight will depart from until nearer your departure time. Digital information screens, located throughout the terminal, will provide you with this information and will tell you when it’s time to go to your gate.

Visual Symbols

Visual symbols, like this picture of our yellow signage can be seen throughout the terminal, as well as within this guide.

Here are some of the icons that you may see on our signage. The information within this guide will tell you what you can expect at each stage of your Departures journey.

Check with your airline how far in advance you can check in.

Top Tip

Download ‘Heathrow Airport Guide’ from your app store to start to plan your journey before you arrive at Heathrow.
What you can expect

A busy airport can be a very hostile environment if you have a sensory processing disorder. There are lots of reflective surfaces, bright lights, alarms, crowd congestion and lots of unfamiliar tastes and smells.

We cannot offer a sensory friendly environment but we can tell you what you can expect and help you to come up with a plan.

Asking for help at the airport

Help call points
Help Call Points can be found all around Heathrow. The call point could look different than the picture above. A map of Help Call point locations can be found here: http://www.heathrow.com/airport-guide/getting-around-heathrow/airport-maps

Calls made from one of our Help Call points are answered by our Airport Operations Centre. It is just like calling someone on a loudspeaker phone. Press the button and wait for someone to answer before speaking.

How to Get Assistance
If you suddenly need help during your journey, there are several things you can do:
• Look for a person wearing the Helping Hand badge.
• Use a Help Call Point
• Speak to anyone wearing an Airport ID who can direct you in the right direction
• Look for a nearby here to help location

Other people who can help me
Can’t find help? Approach an Airport Worker – they will be wearing an ID.

Please note that whilst we are passionate about transforming customer service at Heathrow, we are on a journey with our hidden disabilities programme to develop it to suit our passengers. We already have over 1000 colleagues trained to assist you and are working to expand this across our airport.

Here to help locations
We have a number of fixed locations where you can find a person to speak to if you need help.

Main Building (Before Security)
Level 0, Arrivals hall - Ambassador position at the Information desk.
Level 1, Departures - Special Assistance Area, opposite Pret above Zone A

Main Building (After Security)
Near World Duty Free, past the toilets
There is a lot to see and do in the Departure Lounge and it can get very busy. You should remain in the main Departure Lounge area until you are provided with your departure gate number. Read the “Departure Lounge Facilities” section within this guide.

If you need a boarding pass or if you have a bag to check-in then this can be done in the Terminal 3 Departures Check-in area.

Once you have your boarding pass and have checked in any bags that you need to you should go to the first floor via the lifts, stairs or escalators and go to security.

To help you get through security quicker you should check that your bags don’t contain any liquids, sharp objects or other forbidden objects. Read the “Pre-Security Preparation” section within this guide.

Only passengers who have a valid boarding pass are allowed to go beyond this point. You will need to show your boarding pass to go through the barrier.

All passengers need to go through security search. This is where you and your belongings are checked to make sure that you are not carrying anything considered to be dangerous. Read the “Pre-Security Preparation” section within this guide.

There is a lot to see and do in the Departure Lounge and it can get very busy.

You should remain in the main seating and shopping area until you are provided with your departure gate number. Read the “Departure Lounge Facilities” section within this guide.

The departure gate is the location where you will exit the Terminal building to board your aircraft.

There will be plenty of information which will help you to confirm whether you are in the right place.

The airline agent will tell you when it is time to board the aircraft.

If you’re feeling anxious then you should ask for help from the airline service agent at your departure gate.

If you need additional help then go to the Special Assistance area upstairs from Zone A check-in area).

Use the visual prompts and signage before security to remind you of the security rules.

Use the desk that is manned by the officer instead of using the automatic gate.

Passenger ambassadors can be found in this area, should you need any help.

This area can get very congested and noisy so headphones to listen to music or ear defenders can be useful.
Check-in

At the Airport

If you need any help then go to the Special Assistance area on level 1, upstairs from check in zone A.

Before you get to the Airport

Take time to review the security information on the Heathrow website and the baggage section on your airline’s website. This will help you to decide whether you need to check in a bag or whether you can carry it on the aircraft as hand luggage.

If you have bags to check in:

• Go to a check-in desk in your airline zone and wait to speak to an airline representative.
• Bags that are checked-in (hold baggage) will be taken to the aircraft using a series of conveyor belts. They will then be loaded in to a special area of the aircraft (baggage hold) reserved just for suitcases and cargo.
• You will be given a receipt which you should keep safe until you have been reunited with your bag at your destination airport.
• The airline representative will print your boarding pass for you.
• Once you have your boarding pass and have checked in any bags that you need to, you should make your way up to security. Security is located above the check-in zones.

If you do not have bags to check in:

• If you did not print your boarding pass at home, go to a check-in desk in your airline zone and wait to speak to an airline representative.
• They will print your boarding pass for you.
• Once you have this you should make your way upstairs to Security.
• If you already have your boarding pass printed and have no bags to drop off go straight to security when you arrive at the terminal.
Pre-Security Preparation

Passenger Service Ambassadors (dressed in a purple uniform) are located in this area to answer any questions you might have.

In this area you will find lots of visual prompts to remind you of what you are allowed to take through security. A traffic-light colour coding system (red, amber, green) will help you to decide what action, if any, you need to take.

Only passengers who have a boarding pass which is valid for travel are allowed into the pre-security preparation area.

At this stage in your journey you should only have your hand baggage with you. Any hold baggage will have already been given to your airline at bag drop/check-in.

If you have any of the items on you at this point which are shown as being forbidden through security then you should put them in the bins provided.

Any liquids, gels, creams or pastes (max 100ml per item) should be placed in to one of the re-sealable plastic bags available. You will need to show this bag to an officer when you get to the Security search area.

Preparing to travel
At this stage in your journey, checks will be made to make sure you have a valid boarding card.

The automatic gates will scan your boarding pass to check whether you have a boarding pass which is valid for travel.

Always keep your boarding pass and passport in the same pocket or bag so that you don’t struggle finding them.

Preparing to travel

If the gate does not automatically open, further instructions will be given to you on the small information screen.

You will be directed by the information on the screen to go and see the officer at the desk who will be able to assist.

The automatic gates are quick and easy to use but there are occasions where you might be unable to use an automatic gate and will need to go to the assistance desk where a security officer will help you.

When to seek assistance?

- If you have no barcode on your boarding pass
- If you are travelling with young children
- If you are aged 16 and under
- If you have trouble using the automatic gate
- If you would prefer to have the checks done by an officer
Security Search

You are now approaching security search and you should expect to queue.

When you reach the front of the security search lane you should put your possessions into the trays provided (remembering to follow the four simple steps on the left). This should be followed by your hand luggage and any other items that we recommend you to remove such as your watch, belt, hat, shoes or other large metal jewellery items.

You can use as many trays as you need.

You will lose sight of your things for a moment while they go through the x-ray machine.

Any baggage or items placed in the trays will now be x-rayed to check that you have no items that could be considered unsafe on-board an aircraft.

If your baggage/trays pass the security check then they will appear out of the x-ray machine, ready to collect, after you’ve walked through the archway metal detector.

If your baggage fails the security screening process then it will be put to one side and an officer will need to do further security checks which will include a manual search of your bag. You may have to wait for a while.

Whilst your bag goes through the X-ray machine you will be asked to walk through an archway metal detector.

You should not walk through the archway until the officer calls you forward or makes a hand gesture telling you to approach them.

If the light on the archway flashes green when you walk through and no beep is heard, you can now collect your bag and any other possessions that you were separated from.

If your bag has been put aside to be searched you will have to wait until it has been returned to you.

Preparing to travel

The officer will ask you to stand with your arms and legs apart while they gently pat your clothing. They will use a hand metal detector to check that you have not got any sharp items or weapons on you.

You might also be asked to go through a body scanner. See glossary for further information.
In the main departures lounge you will find lots of shops, restaurants and facilities. You will also find all of the Departure Gates.

Our yellow information signs will show you the direction to, and time it takes to walk to your departure gate.

More information on all of the facilities on offer within Terminal 3, including maps can be found on the Heathrow website, on our app, or displayed at key information points around the building.

With so much to see and do in the Terminal it’s important that you remember to get to your Departure Gate on time. Information to help you find exactly when and where in the terminal your flight will depart from can be found on the information screens or by checking the Heathrow app.
Departure Lounge Facilities

Special Assistance
You will find the special assistance area within the World Duty Free shop past the toilets.
It is signposted just past security.

Family Lounge
For younger passengers there is access to a Soft Play Area located by the Ted Baker store, just follow the signs for Lounge A. Stairs and a lift will get you to the first floor.
The area is open from 6.00am – 9.00pm for Children aged up to 9 years (Height restrictions apply)
There is no charge to use this facility.
Children will need to wear socks.

Quiet Rest Area
There is a rest and relaxation room near gate 24.
This is space away from the crowds of other passengers where you can sit and wait for your flight.
Please note that is a quiet space.

No1 Lounge/ Spa
The No1 Lounge is an independent facility (open to all passengers) it offers a quiet place to rest and relax. There is a time limit on how long you can stay and a charge to use the lounge.
Follow the signs for Lounge F, there are stairs or a lift which will take you there.
For more details or to make a booking see our website:

Preparing to travel
Your Flight Information – change to non code share flight
Whatever type of boarding pass you have, you only need to know where to find 3 important pieces of information to help you use the information screens and find your departure gate.

1. Departure Time
2. Destination
3. Flight Number

A codeshare agreement is where two or more airlines share the same flight. This means that each airline publishes and markets the flight itself. If a flight is operating on a codeshare, our screens rotate the information to show multiple flight numbers. The boarding pass below for instance shows a flight to Helsinki – this is actually a British Airways flight, advertised under a codeshare with American Airlines.

You can use this information to find your departure gate on our flight information screens. Their display looks like this:
Flight Information

Find your flight on the Information Screens

Use the information screens to find out where your flight will depart from

Follow the signs to find your departure gate

Confirm you are at the correct gate

Preparation to travel

What you can expect to know and when

At this time any information about which gate your flight may depart from could change. You are most likely to see the GATE SHOWN message for your flight.

By this time you should have a specific gate number. You are most likely to see the GO TO GATE message of your flight.

You should have a specific gate number by this time and be at, or on your way to your departure gate. You are most likely to see a BOARDING message.

Some flights have multiple flight numbers and therefore you will see this information scroll. This does not mean your flight number has changed or that you are flying on a different airline.

Listed below are some of the messages you may see on the information screen and the actions you will need to take.

GATE SHOWN Your gate number is not yet known. Check the screen at the time given and your gate number should be shown at that time.

BOARDING Your flight is close to departing – go to the gate number which is shown in orange.

FLIGHT CLOSING Your flight is very close to departing – go immediately to the gate number which is shown.

DELAYED TO or PLEASE WAIT Your flight has been or is likely to be delayed. You should seek further information from your airline or ask for help.

Some gates are quite a long walk. Make sure you leave enough time to get there.

Electric Buggies are used to help passengers who can’t walk very far. They make a beeping noise so you know they are coming.

Download ‘Heathrow Airport Guide’ from your app store and store your personal flight details. The app will then provide you with regular status updates on your flight including latest departure time and call to gate information.
Boarding the Aircraft

All of the Departure Gates have clear signs to help you confirm that you are in the right place.

Once you have confirmed that you are at the right location you should take a seat and wait for further instructions.

You should use this time to get your passport and boarding pass out (as you will need to show these documents). You should also check your boarding pass to find where you will be seated as many airlines will ask passengers to board the aircraft by seat row order. Your seat number is shown on your boarding pass. The number tells you which row and the letter is the specific seat number. For instance:

Row 18
Seat F

The airline representative will make the announcement telling you that they are ready to board the aircraft and will ask passengers seated in certain rows to come forward to the desk to start boarding.

Your boarding pass and passport will be checked.

When the checks are complete you will be allowed to pass the desk to walk down the air bridge (pictured above) and on to the aircraft where you will be met by the airline cabin crew who will help you find your seat and give you instructions on where to put your bags.

If you think you might struggle with this part of the journey, please speak to the airline representative when you arrive at the gate as many will allow passengers with Autism to pre-board (get on the aircraft first.)

Check-in/Bag-drop

Checking in is the process that passengers go through when they arrive at an airport. At check-in, you tell your airline that you have arrived. The airline gives you a boarding pass that entitles you to travel through the airport to your aircraft. At Heathrow you can check in at the airline check-in desks or use the self-service check-in consoles. Some people check in online before they leave home. If you have baggage which you need to check in, you will drop it off here.

Boarding pass

A boarding pass is a document that entitles a passenger to a seat on their aircraft. The ticket you have booked with your airline is digitally transformed into a boarding pass, allowing you access onto the aircraft. Some passengers pick up their boarding passes when they check in at the airport. Passengers who check in online usually print out their boarding passes at home. Some passengers do not print their passes, but use digital boarding passes on their mobile phones. Every passenger needs a boarding pass to get through security at Heathrow.

Airline

An airline is a commercial organisation that flies passengers by aircraft from one airport to another. When you book a flight, you book it with an airline. When you pay, your airline gives you a ticket. Airlines that fly from Heathrow have their own staff and check-in desks at the airport.
Glossary

Information screens
Information screens provide up-to-date information on all flights from Heathrow. There are information screens in every part of the airport so you can check on your flight whenever you want. Look on the screen for your flight number. When it's time to make your way to the departure gate, the screen will show you the gate number for your flight and the time for boarding your aircraft.

Body Scanner
A body scanner is a tool that security officers use to check passengers for items that could be dangerous on an aircraft. The scanner is a cubicle with glass sides. It looks a bit like a round telephone box. If you are asked to step into the scanner, someone will show you where to go. Inside you will see signs that show you where to stand. The process is quick. A scan takes less than 30 seconds. Nothing will touch you. The scanner is a good way to avoid a more intrusive search. However, if the scanner detects anything unusual, someone will still have to search the area of your body identified by the scanner.

Archway Metal Detector
An archway metal detector is another tool that security officers use to check that passengers do not have any forbidden items on them (such as sharp, metal items). The archway is a bit like a door frame and there is plenty of space for you to walk through it. If it beeps, you will have to be searched by a security officer. They will always ask your permission before touching you, and have been trained to be as non-intrusive as possible, whilst keeping our airport safe. All passengers have to pass through the Archway Metal Detector, except for those who are physically unable, who will have a body search by an officer.
Airbridge/Jetty

An airbridge or a jetty is a moveable bridge which is placed against an aircraft door to allow passengers to board or disembark. They are covered passageways which connect the terminal building to the aircraft. They are sometimes quite narrow and do not have any windows. If your aircraft is not parked at a gate with an airbridge, you will be taken by bus to your plane.

Gate/Departure Gate

Gate and departure gate are two names for the same thing. The gate for your flight is the part of the airport terminal where you board your aircraft. Every gate has its own reference code.
