Introduction by John Holland-Kaye the Chief Executive Officer of Heathrow Airport Holdings Limited

Heathrow welcomes the introduction and implementation of the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Heathrow is one of the world’s leading international hub airports, and one of the main points of entry in to and exit from the United Kingdom. As such we have a unique responsibility to lead the way in preventing slavery and human trafficking. We are committed to maintaining and continuously improving our practices to combat slavery and human trafficking across Heathrow Airport. We are also working with Heathrow business partners (including suppliers, airlines, ground-handlers and retailers) to combat slavery and human trafficking in their supply chains.

As a Responsible Gateway, Heathrow must take the best possible care of everyone that passes through its gates. Unfortunately, we live in a world in which slavery and human trafficking still takes place. That’s why, by working together with our business partners, and across the wider Team Heathrow, we are committed to tackling the slavery and human trafficking. Our Modern Slavery Act 2015 Statement sets out an overview of the many ways in which we demonstrated that important commitment in 2016.

Heathrow 2.0, our recently launched plan for sustainable growth, captures the momentum of an industry-wide shift towards a sustainable future for aviation. It embodies the steps being taken by Heathrow towards preventing modern slavery and human trafficking. By working with our business partners and stakeholders on our joint challenges and responsibilities, we can create a future where our business, our people, our communities and our world can all thrive.

Our Supply Chain

Heathrow provides a thriving community for over 76,000 people from more than 400 companies, from the biggest airline alliances to the single self-employed cabbie. We call them “Team Heathrow”. Heathrow’s influence therefore stretches far beyond the airport’s boundary. We aim to operate Heathrow Airport as a place that drives change throughout our supply chain, delivering the most ethical, sustainable and low-carbon procurement and sourcing possible.

Heathrow’s supply chain is both extensive and global, and incorporates a wide range of products, and services spanning a variety of industry sectors, broadly grouped as follows:

Sustainability is embedded into all procurement processes from sourcing strategies, tenders, evaluations, contract clauses and KPIs.

Our Whistleblowing Policy is aimed largely at our employees (permanent or temporary), but also applies to consultants, agency workers, contractors working at Heathrow Airport. This policy encourages individuals to report any wrongdoing which extends to slavery and human trafficking. All whistleblowing reports are treated in the strictest confidence and are investigated fully with appropriate remedial actions taken, where necessary in accordance with Heathrow’s Internal Investigations Policy.

Training to Employees

To further ensure an understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking across our business we have committed to raising awareness and understanding among employees on the importance of preventing any form of modern slavery and human trafficking. We will build education on this into our ongoing learning and development programmes across the business.

In addition, we are continuing our training for security officers to recognise the way in which people who are being trafficked might present at Heathrow Airport, and to offer assistance to those who might be vulnerable.

Training to the wider Heathrow community

Heathrow works collaboratively with UK Border Force, the Met Police and other agencies operating at Heathrow Airport to assist them in detecting and disrupting potential occurrences of human trafficking.
Our achievements in 2016 in helping raise awareness of Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

During the past year we have taken various steps to increase our awareness of slavery and human trafficking across Heathrow Airport.

To support making Heathrow a Responsible Gateway to the UK (a place that strives to end trafficking of people and wildlife) we launched The Responsible Gateway Forum in Autumn 2016. The Forum, chaired by Heathrow Travel Care, focuses on how we are working with our partners on preventing human exploitation, trafficking and how we can protect all vulnerable people travelling through Heathrow Airport.

On 18 October 2016 (World Anti-Slavery Day) Heathrow, together with UK Border Force, hosted an Anti-Slavery Day Lunch. Over 75 people attended from our suppliers, airlines, civil service and NGO stakeholders. Attendees received a brief address from the Minister for Vulnerability, Safeguarding and Countering Extremism, Sarah Newton MP and the UK’s first Anti-Slavery Commissioner, Kevin Hyland OBE. At the event, we launched UK Border Force’s Modern Slavery training tool for port stakeholders, with over 30 Team Heathrow companies making pledges to train their colleagues over the coming year.

In November 2016, at our Annual Supplier Conference and Awards, we hosted a workshop with our strategic suppliers to shares our thoughts and seek their input into our forthcoming sustainability strategy. We sought feedback on supplier plans already in place, including around preventing slavery and human trafficking in the supply chain. On the day itself, over 15 suppliers pledged to work with us to tackle slavery and human trafficking in all their forms.

In December 2016, Heathrow Airport become a Partner of the Supply Chain Sustainability School (the “School”), which provides practical support to suppliers in the form of e-learning modules, tailored self-assessments, action plans and sustainability training which includes ethical business practices, Anti-Slavery and Human Trafficking. We intend to have all strategic suppliers to become members of the School by the end of 2018 and plan to roll this out more widely thereafter.

It is important to note that in February 2017 we launched Heathrow 2.0, our plan for sustainable growth. It represents a step-change for our business and captures the momentum of an industry-wide shift towards a sustainable future for aviation. By working with partners and stakeholders to devise solutions, and by investing in, and implementing breakthrough technology, we can create a future where our business, our people, our communities, our country and our world can all thrive.

Our goals in Heathrow 2.0, which embody steps taken by Heathrow in 2016 towards preventing modern slavery and human trafficking, include;
• To work with our supply chain and Team Heathrow to tackle modern slavery and human trafficking in all their forms (Goal 9.5), and
• To operate Heathrow as a Responsible Gateway – a place that strives to end trafficking of people (Goal 12.1).

Our future commitments to combatting Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking

Heathrow is committed to maintaining a leadership role in working with Heathrow’s Business Partners and Team Heathrow in tackling the issue of modern slavery and human trafficking. We will keep our focus on the continuous improvement and delivery of effective strategies to meet this important commitment.
